Nathalie Delannoye graduated cum laude as Master of Law in 2008 (University of Antwerp). Nathalie started working for elegis – Huybrechts, Engels, Craen & Partners in 2008 and was admitted to the Antwerp Bar in 2011. Nathalie specialises in social law (labour law and social security). In labour law she has established experience both in individual labour law (employment contracts, dismissal,...) and collective labour law (social dialogue, collective dismissal, closure of enterprise). She serves both private individuals and enterprises by providing advice or representing the client's interests in a lawsuit. She provides SMEs and multinationals with advice regarding personnel, in the broadest sense of the word. She offers assistance in Dutch, French, English or Spanish at the client's choice. Assistance and advice is customised in view of the client's specific needs. Nathalie insists on a quick and open correspondence in order to offer clients practical and pragmatic solutions. Nathalie is a regular attendant/speaker at seminars and conferences of the Terralex Employment Practice Group, the international association of prominent law firms of which elegis – Huybrechts, Engels, Craen & Partners is a senior member.
